H&S PARTNERS WITH STEVE DARNELL OF WELDER UP

Mooresville, NC March 23, 2020

H&S Autoshot announces a partnership with Steve Darnell of Welder Up (famous for Vegas Rat Rods on the Discovery Channel) for their welding & plasma cutting products. This partnership confirms Steve as their official brand ambassador.

“H&S builds unconventional welders in a sense that we are laser-focused on building compact inverter machines specifically designed for automotive fabrication and repair. Steve and the Welder Up team are dedicated to building unconventional super custom rat rods. This partnership allows us to marry our companies’ unique and radical styles”, said Eric Sponhaltz, National Sales and Marketing Manager. “Our products are designed for automotive professionals like Steve and the team. With Steve’s creativity and H&S Autoshots’ product performance, we are looking forward to having his newest creations come to life”, says Sponhaltz.

WelderUp is not your average car customization shop. Steve Darnell is the creative mastermind behind the motorized works of art that emerge from the WelderUp shop. Las Vegas is the perfect setting to inspire Steve to design the one of a kind rat rods only he can create. Steve's incredible talent and mind-blowing creativity have caused a frenzy in the custom car world.

H&S Autoshot’s family of professional welders and plasma cutters are designed specifically for the automotive professionals. H&S products are built with industry-leading features, unrivaled output power + duty cycles, and are supported with parts & technical support based in Mooresville, North Carolina.
